

Checklist for Off Campus Housing Search

1. Decide what you are looking for. Do you want to live by yourself or with other people? How much are you able to pay? How far are you willing to travel? Brainstorm these kinds of things early to make your search easier.
2. Take the Online Renter's Workshop. CROS's online workshop guides you through the steps to find off-campus housing and teaches you about your rights and how to avoid problematic situations. Complete it to receive a certificate to add to your rental application packet.

Familiarize yourself with our online resources including informational flyers, useful forms, and current rental law information.
4. Submit a Reference Release Form. This form, submitted to the Campus Housing Office at Hahn Student Services room 104, enables the University to provide a reference to landlords regarding rent payment and on-campus tenant conduct histories.
5. Create a rental application packet. A rental packet is a great tool to promote yourself and make you more memorable to landlords. It includes cover letter, rental application, and references. If you are applying as a group, each person should be represented in the packet. Instructions for creating a packet can be found in the workshop.
6. Search for rentals. Click on "Search for Rentals" on our website to search for available local listings. Our Additional Rental Resources page contains links to other sites that advertise available rentals.
