

Pet Resume Guide

A pet resume provides an opportunity to present potential landlords with a summary of your companion animal's best qualities and examples of your responsibility as a pet owner. Try to address the following areas in your pet resume:

- Mention anything about your pet's age, activity level, and/or breed traits that help make your dog or cat a "good tenant." Tell the landlord something positive about your animal's personality and how much you care about your pet.
- Give examples of your pet's good behavior and your responsibility. Has your dog been to obedience school or had special training? If your dog has lived in apartments before and is accustomed to it, be sure to say so. If you have more than one pet, let the landlord know how well they get along and keep each other company while you are away. If your cat uses a scratching post, say so and also note that your cat is litter box trained.
- There can be a big difference between a 10-year-old dog and a frisky puppy. If your pet is quiet, calm and/or less active, responds well to visitors and does not bark often, point that out. If you have an active dog, explain how you fulfill his/her exercise requirements.
- Explain how you keep your pet clean and free of fleas. Mention that you always clean up after your dog, and/or dispose of cat litter properly.
- Let the landlord know your dog or cat is spayed or neutered. Also note that your animal is up-to-date on his/her vaccinations, and mention who is your pet's veterinarian.
- Describe the arrangements for your pet when you go to work or on vacation.
- Offer to sign a pet agreement and pay an additional pet deposit.
- You may want to certify your dog through the American Kennel Club's Canine Good Citizen program which will test and verify that your dog has good manners at home and in the community. You will receive a certificate from AKC.

In addition to your pet's resume, you should also attach reference letters from current and previous landlords and/or neighbors, certificates of completion of obedience/training classes, references from your pet's trainer or groomer, a health certificate from your vet, and even if your pet is not cute, a picture for identification purposes.
